An imprest was held to-day on the body of the colored boy Willie Merton, who was killed yesterday afternoon by one of the street-cars, with the object of ascertations whether or not any blame attached to the driver of the car. The accident occurred immediately opposite the store No. whether or not any blame attached to the driver of the car. The accident use-curred immediately opposite the story No. 130 Sycamore street, where a sale of prize-candy is mytogress, and where a large crowd is usually gathered. Witnesses testified that as the car passed this point the boy was been to tun out from the crowd and sitempt to cross the street. He ran against the car-males and so frightened the animals that they reared and kicked the boy lack against the wheels and rendered all efforts of the driver to stop the car futile. The first wheel of the car passed across the boy's neck—cutting the throat and breaking the bones of the neck—causing almost instant death. The driver of the car testified that the first he saw of the boy was while he was clinging to the foreless of the mule and the rearing and plunging of the animal. He stopped the car after the frost wheel had pessed over him. The jury rendered a verdict of accidental death.

The cases for the condemnation of property in this city for the uses of the Virginia and Carolina Radroad Company will come up in the Hustings Court to-morrow. Those that are uncontested will be confirmed. In several cases, however, in which it is elaimed that the assessment of the commissioners is beneath the actual value of the property, a stubborn light is to be made by the owners.

It is stated that diphtheris prevails to an alarming extent in the upper portion of Pinwiddle county, and that numerous deaths have occurred. One family lost three children recently.

The hunting parties who recently visited Notteway county, as mentioned in this correspondence, were successful in their huntieth for deer and birds. One gentleman killed 225 partridges during a week's hunt. Game is reported to be abundant throughout this entire section.

In a late letter from Onancock to the Dispatch mention is made of a tragedy that occurred at Cape Charles City, Eastern Shore, Va., week before last. The partiessayer and slaim, were young negroes from slaver and slain-were young negroes from this county, and indeed from this immedthis county, and indeed from this manced-ate neighborhood; the one named Asa Sweedon, the other Austin Dupny. Both enjoyed good reputations here for honesty, industry, and peaceableness, and the sad affair, though little discussed, is much reafair, though little discussed, is much regretted by everybody, white and colored. It is not known exactly what were the eigenmatances of the quared and the killing. Bishop Whittle preached here day before vesterday. He confirmed three candidates—Mr. Baxter Tuggle, Miss Florence Tuggle, and Miss Annie Epes. The reverend gentleman is a most charming speaker, and is very popular with all the denominations here. The writer was at college with we sense of the Bishop, and from his retwo sons of the Bishop, and from his re-collections of them is prepared to find the father such a munister and such a man as

Dying is the only good thing the Repul-can party ever did, and it did that in a Dying is the only good thing the Repulsican party ever did, and it did that in a most ungraceful and shocking manner, pulling its bair, grinding its teeth, and tossing convuisively, like an old hag expiring with delirium Lemens, it died of a disease contracted at Chicago 2d of last June. There was once a wight who, coming home drunk, eagerly seized a glass of water in which his wife had accidentally let fall a little ball of cotton. The poor fellow, in his anxiety to drink the water, swatlowed the ball of cotton, too; but some of the thread hanging out of his mouth, he pulled it with both hands till, having measured off a yard or two, he became terribly frightened, and exclaimed: "Doily, Dolly, come here quick, wife; I'm unraveiling all to pieces." In '76 the Republican party was not drunk enough to swallow Blaine. In '80 it was not quite drunk enough for such a feat; but in June. Anno Domini 1884, it got on such a fearful bust "that it finally swallowed him, and now the grand old party has literally and actually unraveled all to pieces."

We are celebrating our deliverance from Egypilan tyranny and our happy departure for the promised had that after the 4th of March will flow with Democratic milk and honey. Sadden Deuth of Prof. Stephen O. Sonthull. [Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

November 28, 1884.

The people of this community and the University were shocked this morning by the announcement of the sudden death of Professor Stephen O. Southall, of the University of Virginia. It seems that he was busily engaged yesterday with examinations, and worked unusually hard. This morning about 2:45 he went to the Virginia Midland junction, intending to take the south-bound express. He stepped up to the ticket-window to purchase his ticket, when he was taken suidenly ill, and fell, expiring before assistance could reach him. It is supposed that his death was caused by a faint, as no trace, I learn, of any 6rganic disease was found upon him. It is inferred that he over-exerted himself in the endeavor to catch it, and this exertion caused him to faint. His body was converted to the University.

Professor Southall occupied the chair of constitutional and international law, to which position he was elected in 1856. He was from Abelia county, and was born in 1810. He was a cousin of Dr. James C. and Hon. S. V. Souttali. He was exceedingly popular with the students, and filted his position with distinguished ability. He never married, but his boats of relations and friends on the Southelde as well as here. The Grand Lodge of Good Templars met this moraning. The report of the Committee on Templanee Literature was submitted and adopted. The report appropriated funds for the circulation of temperance intersture and the organ of the order, the Good Templars' Gazette. In addition to this, the representatives piedged individual subscription to over five hundred copies of the organ. The Grand Lodge declined to change the time of its meeting.

An animated discussion took place over the report of the Committee on Temperance Legislation, an effort being made to commit the order to the third party movement. This was unsuccessful. The Grand Lodge adopted the report of the committee, which provided that the two parties, in their approaching State Conventions, should be petitioned to favor the cuacturent of a local-option law, and in the event of refusal or a failure to call their State Conventions by August 1, 1883, then the Executive Committee of the Grand Lodge shall issue a call for a State convention of all temperance organizations, churches, and for the purpose of taking such steps as may be deemed advisable.

Madame Hugues avers that she would have killed Morin long ago if it had not been for her husband. He sent dissuading her from such an act. The slander circuisted by Morin was that previous to her marriage the lady's character was not good. After he was wounded yesterday Morin wrote a declaration, in which be said, "I am innocent." The public is enthusiastic in admiration of Madame Hugues. It is generally expected that she will be acquitted.

The history of the tragedy is as follows: Yesterday morning the wife of Deputy Clovis Hugues, with a revolver, shot and killed M. Morin, the Commission Agont, at the Palais de Justice, because he had standered her. Last year M. Hugues and wife prosecuted M. Morin for defamation of character, and obtained a sentence of two years' imprisonment. M. Morin, however, by a system of dilatory motions, carried the case from court to court. Madame Hugues become angry, and today, hearing that the Assize Court of the Seine would grant another adjournment of a fortnight, proceeded there, and upon the rourt rising for luncheon, Madame Hugues, her husband and counsel, in descending the staircase, met M. Land of Foresis and Fur-Bearing Animals. (Natural) The hills are covered with forests of fir

The hills are covered with forests of fir. larch, cedar, birch, etc., and in these are found numerous wild animals, such as the fur sable, the otter, foxes of all colors, and the bear, which latter, on account of the great supply of food, attacks neither man nor the domestic animals. It is enrious to note that the squirrel, which is universal in siberia, is not found here at all. Swans, wild ducks, etc., are found in great quantities in the lakes and marshes in the interior, and their ergs, as well as the birds themselves, are taken in great numbers by the people. Fish, which throng the rivers in enormous numbers in the summer, form the principal food of the natives. For the most part they are salmon (Salmo salar), and are dried and stored up for the winter, but owing to the scarcity and dearness of salt the fish frequently become rotten, and the people suffer great privation. The rigor of winter is much softened by warm ocean currents, which create those thick, continuous fogithat render the coast so dangerous to navigation. The total population of both sexes put down at only 6,500 soils, but, owing to the total absence of agriculture, and to the primitive methods adopted for preserving food for winter, these are frequently he a state of semi-starvation. For all except bare food they have to look abroad—clothes, utensils, teatobacco, etc., and all these they purchase by means of their fur sable, which is unequaled in any other part of the world. About 5,000 of there-skins are sold cach year at 1510 20 rubbles each. At the beginning of the present century cattle were introduced from lakoutsk, and owing to the excellent grass and water, would have thriven well, but on account of the lack of industry or energy on the part of the natives it was found impossible to lay in sufficient stores of fodder in winter. The question whether agriculture is the lack of industry or energy on the part of the natives it was found impossible to lay in sufficient stores of fodder in winter. The question whether agriculture is possible in the peninsula has never yet been answered. Markets exist in the parts of Eastern Stheria, which are at present supplied with such articles as salt meat, butter, cloth, and hides from san Francisco. The main obstacle to agriculture is the excessively damp and constantly forgy climate. The sun seldom shines, and does not, therefore give enough warmth for the growth of tye and enough warmth for the growth of tye and wheat. The trade is almost wholly with California, and as there is lattle or no money there it is carried on by a system of ex-change, the natives offering their sable skins in return for such goods as they re-

Reidsville Notes

(Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.) REIDSVILLE, N. C., November 27, 1884. Over sixty new buildings are now in construction in this town. Seventy-five thousand dollars in buildings have been put in contract here in the last three months. The city authorities are building a cistern to hold fifty thousand gallous. The fire-engine (Silby's make) is one of the best in the State.

best in the State.

Outside of the corporate limits there is also an amount of building in progress, and land there sells at the rate of from two to three hundred dollars an sere. A lot of new-comers are now prospecting here. William Scott, Esq., elerk of our County William Scott, Esq., eierk of our County Court many years ago, and brother-in-law to H. K. Reid, of this town, died at Aspen Grove, in this county, last Tuesday. He was full shocked with all the honors that make a elever man and useful citizen; aged seventy-one. He was buried here this eventy.

Sudden Death of a Famous Leader.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

WELLINGTON, KAN. November 28.—
Captain David L. Payne, the famous leader of the Oklahoma Boomers, died suddenly here this morning white breakfasting at a hotel. He addressed a meeting last night, and was apparently in his usual robust health when he entered the dining-room this morning. White eating breakfast he leaned forward and uttered a subdued sound, as if from slight suffocation, and then dropped from his chair and expired manuclistely.

PINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL. | 955 per 1,000; on THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Kew York, November 28.—The Stock Exchange opened it 14 A. M. as usual, after the holiday. The market during the first hour of brainess was active and weak, with a decline in prices of 4a15. Lake Shore and New York Central led the downward movement. Outside of the shares mentioned, the decline was unimportant. Near midday Louisville and Nashville loomed into prominence, advancing 21 on imitted business. No special reason was assigned for the improvement, and the rise was credited to covering short contracts. This advance had a favorable effect on the remainder of the list, especially on Grangers, Southwesterns, and Trunk itoes, in the last hour there were sales to realize, and the early improvement was lost, and Fellow of University College, Oxford, the was one of the Catholic converts of Ocaliable Walker, and at the revolution was deprived of his fellowship. Page, in after life, subscribed to a pension for his intor, though he seems to have been an inefficient teacher. At twelve years old he returned to the "paternal ceil" at Bindeid, "pole," as he says himself, "to construe a little of Tuily's Offices." With the exception of a few months under a priest in Windsor Forest, on the border of which Bunfield was situated, this was all the schooling Pope ever had.
